ACTIVITIES

Reminiscing Those Events

Wed. October 18, 1978. The 12:03 bell rang. Students from classes all over the campus came directly to the quad. An election was to be held. Many more students than usual, however, came. It was more than just any regular election. It was the Homecoming Candidates' election.

Swarming in for his IBM card, each student gazed in wonder at the photographs behind the members of the Elections Committee. Many students, still undecided, made their way through the crowd for the polls and chose between eight seniors, four juniors, and four sophomore candidates. At that time no guess was better than any other which girl would be pronounced queen at that Friday night's game halftime show.

About four o'clock that day all votes were in. That afternoon, one queen, two senior princesses, one junior princess, and one sophomore princess were elected. No souls, other than Ms. Battu, Ms. Hunker, and Mrs. Reyna knew who these girls were until two days later at the Homecoming Assembly.

Every detail was planned to perfection for the assembly. The band, speakers, performers, lights, decor, mikes, bouquets, and candidates were ready. The announcement of all sixteen candidates was the last item on the agenda of the assembly to keep the anxiety of all students burning within them. Activities Commissioner Larry Vega prepared to announce the princesses as everyone devoted their attention to him. He was to announce them in order. Eddie Chavez, Sophomore escort, stood waiting until Larry Vega announced Yvonne Martinez as the princess. When Larry informed the assembly that Lala Espinoza had been chosen as the junior princess, Dave Cadena escorted her to the court's platform. Three out of eight candidates were to be senior princesses. Liz Navarette, Angie Martinez, and Dora Ochoa were escorted by Henry Honda, Tracy Barcelona, and Roy Arroyo and each of the girls felt the great honor.

The court was anxious for the night to come. They all rode in the traditional Homecoming Parade and cheered the Dons on through the first and second quarters of the game.

At halftime as Ms. Ellis introduced them to the crowd, they lined up with their escorts, side by side on the 50 yard line of the field. Their attention was drawn skyward when Ms. Ellis announced that a plane was to publicize the queen's name. The plane was assisted by Ms. Ellis in announcing the 1978 Homecoming Queen. Tears of happiness expressed Liz's inward emotions when she heard her name. During the cheering of the crowd, Liz turned to her escort, her brother-in-law, for a warmhearted embrace.

The 1978-79 Homecoming Court sits proudly with their queen Liz Navarette who reminisces the events of that special day.

Filled with tears and surprise, Liz Navarette turns to her escort at the moment she is pronounced queen.

After she is announced junior princess, Lala Espinoza smiles and along with escort Dave Cadena, awaits the announcement of the three senior princesses.

With a dozen new roses, a sparkling larger crown and a queen's red robe, Liz Navarette smiles with happiness as the rest of the game's crowd cheers her on.

Not knowing that she would be announced as one of the senior princesses, Dora Ochoa smiles as she walks to the front of the gym.

Five class princesses sit alongside Alumni Homecoming Queen Teresa Worrall as their escorts and the audience applauds.

Angie Martinez screams as she reacts to Larry Vega's announcement of her name while Nora Macias congratulates her in the midst of a touchy atmosphere.

Dias de Fiesta

Filled with happiness and honor, the El Grito Princesses enjoy themselves throughout the parade.

"Dias de Fiesta" was the theme for the El Grito celebration last September. The high point of the El Grito festivities was a parade featuring the newly-selected "Miss El Grito" and her court. Schools from throughout the El Rancho Unified School District entered floats or marching units in the annual district-sponsored parade.

El Rancho Senior Amelia Martinez was crowned "1978-79 Miss El Grito" at the coronation ball held the week preceding the festival. Her court included first runnerup Senior Patricia Plascencia, and second runnerup Senior Aida Hernandez. The remainder of the court included princesses chosen from the local junior high schools. The queen and her court rode on the Queen's float in the parade preceding the festival.

The food of the El Grito festivities was excellent and popular among all people present.

The Planning Committee was priveleged to have the television screenstar Isaac Ruiz as the parade's Grand Marshall.

The three classes competed against each other in various races and contests, the most popular of which was the costume contest. This event attracted the largest number of participants. First prize went to Sophomore David Contreras for his original and creative carrot costume. Several teachers also joined in the fun by dressing up in costumes. Students enjoyed this event immensely.

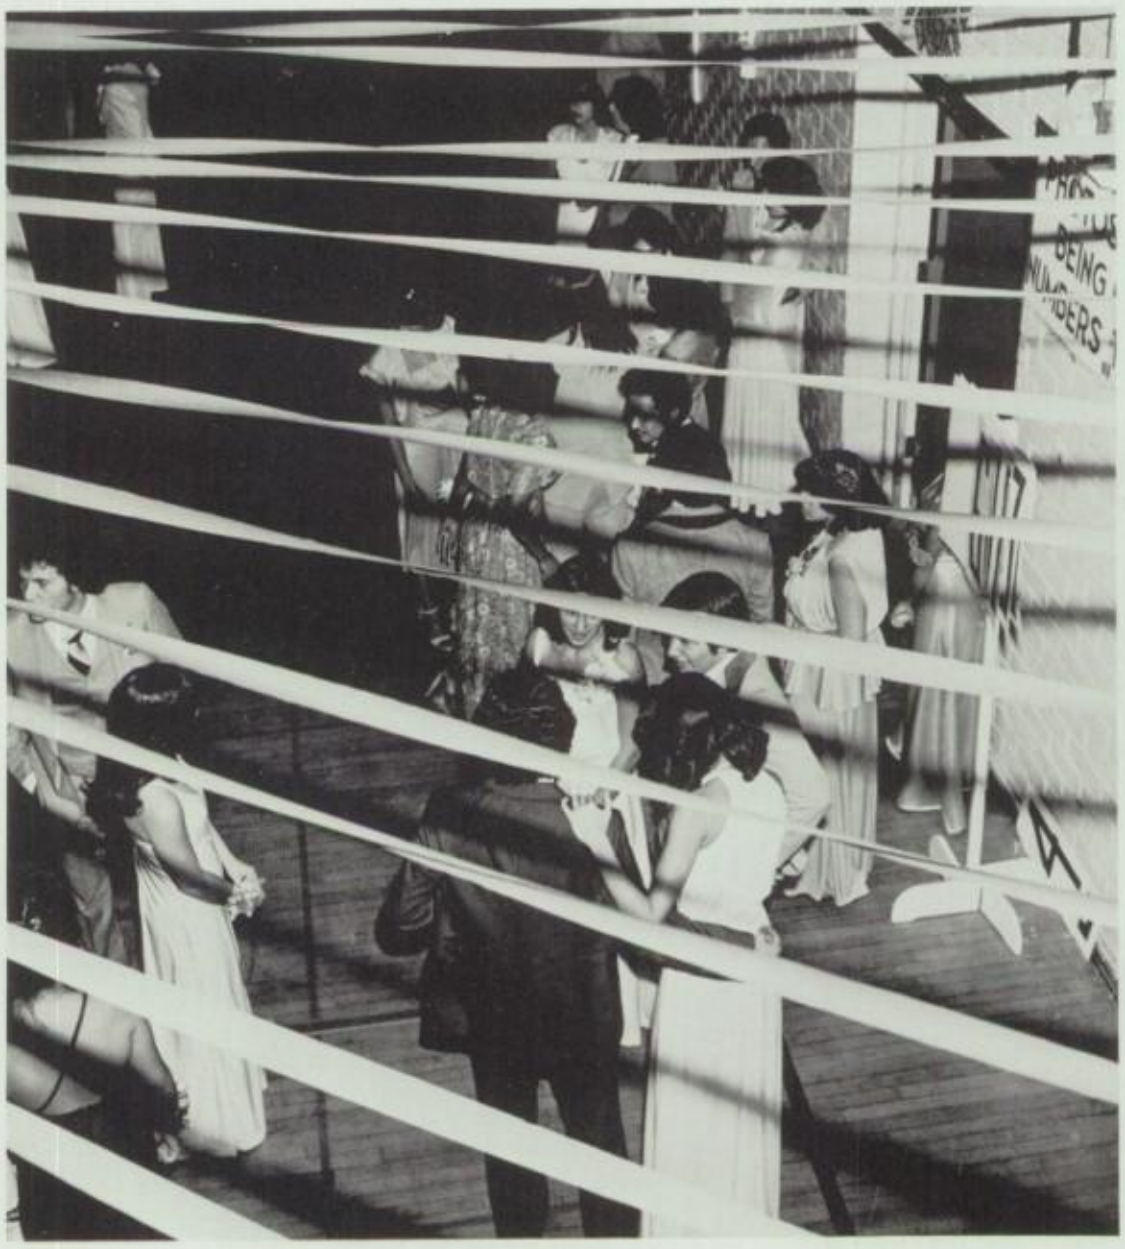
When Girls Ask Boys

The Girls' League Formal Dance, a girl-ask-boy dance, has been a tradition at El Rancho since 1953. Girls' League 2nd Vice President, Kim Lopez, selected the theme for this year's dance, which was "Garden of Paradise". For this special event, the Don Ballroom was decorated with colorful flowers and streamers, and a fountain was placed in the center of the Ballroom to create a romantic atmosphere for the couples to enjoy. The dance which was held on December 9th, lasted from 9 to 12 p.m. Music for the dance was provided by "Best of Friends", a band which had played at previous school dances.

"Best of Friends" give all they have for couples for dancing and listening pleasure.



Couples chat and listen to the music while waiting for their pictures to be taken.

POWDER PUFF ...

What was Powder Puff? Powder Puff was a traditional all girl flag football game which is held every year to show people that girls can be rough and tough, too! One group consisted of jr. and the other group was srs. Both teams and their football player coaches put many long hours into practicing and getting ready for the big night. On Dec. 16, 1978 the Jrs. and the Srs. were ready to defeat each other in the game. To tell who was a Jr. and a Sr., Jrs. wore white jerseys and blue numbers, and Srs. wore blue jerseys and white numbers. 7:30 was the exciting kick-off which was made by the Srs. Both teams played hard and made a great effort to score. The extra point attempt failed and at half time the score was 6-0 Srs. favor. During the half time there was a presentation of the 1978 Powder Puff King, who was Sr. Wayne Ycedo and his court consisting of Sr. Rick Sanchez, and Jr. Bill Dailey. In the second half, the Jrs. made an attempt to score, but the clock ran out—the Srs. had a victorious win!

And In the Center Ring . . .

Preparations for the 26th annual Coed Capers show began with the announcement of the show's theme in January, which was, "And In the Center Ring . . ." Many girls formed groups of twelve to sixteen members and then worked on designing dance steps to go with the music they chose for their routines.

On Saturday, January 20th, Coed Capers tryouts were held in the Gym. Thirteen groups were chosen to be in the show. For the next six weeks, the girls designed costumes, made and painted props, and worked on readying their dance routines for the performances they were to give on February 28th, March 1st, and March 2nd.

Each group chose music for their routine that complied with the theme of the show. Some of the familiar tunes used in the show were "Popcorn," "Baby Elephant Walk," "Bicycle Ride," and "The Bare Necessities." These and other songs helped to give the show a circus-like atmosphere.

The props created by the Coed Capers participants made the Gym seem more like a circus tent. Clowns, elephants, monkeys, and other circus-types decorated the props, and made the audience feel as if they really were "under the big top."

The final Coed Capers performance of 1979 was on March 2nd. On this night the acts were judged, and awards were given to the best acts.

First place went to the Kooky Cannon Clowns, who were directed by Beatrice Wilson. With a little help from K. Knievel, the Clowns put on a performance that completely captivated the audience and the judges, thus earning them the highest honor for the evening.

Capturing the second place position were the three-headed Conspicuous Circus Threeps, led by Jayne Eckenrode. The Threeps' "caveman" dance and their creative costumes won the approval of both the judges and the crowd.

The Boxing Bruised Kangaroos, directed by Valerie Parra, placed third in the competition. Their appealing costumes and their light, bouncy dance routine earned them an award in the show.

Winning the award for Sportsmanship were the Peppy Poppin' Popcorn, directed by Pat Estrada. They were chosen for this honor as a result of an election held by the Coed Capers participants prior to the show.

Chosen for "Children's Choice" were the Rocking Rolling Ringmasterettes, led by Romi Vasquez. They were elected to receive this award by the special education classes who attended the afternoon performance on Wednesday, February 28th.

The Coed Capers performances were livened up by the Continuity group, whose members were Diane Aguilar, Julie Luna, Jackie Ratzky, and Leslie Wogberg. Other people who helped with the show were the stage crew, technical crew, coke sellers, and the crowd controllers. Girls' League President Jill Mosqueda donated much of her time to helping out with the show. Girls' League 1st Vice President, Sandra Deniz, the show's coordinator, also helped the girls prepare for the show. But the person who surpassed all in the amount of time and work spent on Coed Capers was Miss Janet Banks, who, for the past twenty-six years, has dedicated herself to the almost impossible task of planning and directing the show for the benefit of the Senior girls. Her hard work and dedication were appreciated by all who watched or participated in the show. After the judging took place on March 2nd, the girls who were in the show honored Miss Banks by presenting her with a clown charm for her bracelet.

As El Rancho stenographers take down the minutes of this seminar discussion, students express their own opinions on a certain topic.

Listening to Mr. Ken Jones, this young conference participant was totally unaware of the scent within the playhouse.

In the early morning, warm rolls played an important part of the leadership conference.

Explaining the seminar procedures to Bell Gardens' students, Roberta Lozano hands out name tags.

Student Leaders Exchange Ideas

Participating in the siminar in the ASB room, students arrive at new ideas for their won schools.

Registration began at 8:30 A.M. as students from many different high schools arranged themselves in the Don Dining Room. Coffee, milk, chocolate, and delicious cinnamon rolls satisfied the students while the 15th Annual Student Leadership Conference began. As 1st place winners in Coed Capers, the Kooky Cannon Clowns fantastically entertained without the help of lighting or props before the conference students made their way to the El Rancho Playhouse.

In K101, CBS anchorman, Ken Jones, as guest speaker, enlightened the students about his rewarding career. Trying to get over the obvious smell of black paint within the theatre, participants asked questions about the daily news reporting schedule of Mr. Jones.

Seminars were held in different areas around the campus so that each student was able to view the relaxed El Rancho campus. Within the session, these student leaders exchanged ideas of different topics ranging from activities to leadership. The conference enabled all schools to learn of the different qualities of other schools. Students developed new ways to involve students at their own schools and make them better. Meeting new people was one successful part of each seminar. Rivalry amongs schools quickly became extinct.

At 1:00, after a full day, everyone once again met in the cafetorium where lunch was awaiting the 150 hungry students. Cold cuts were served along with refreshing ice-cream sundaes to relieve each and every conference student from the warm day that it was.

Students from high schools all over the area gathered to participate in the 15th annual conference.

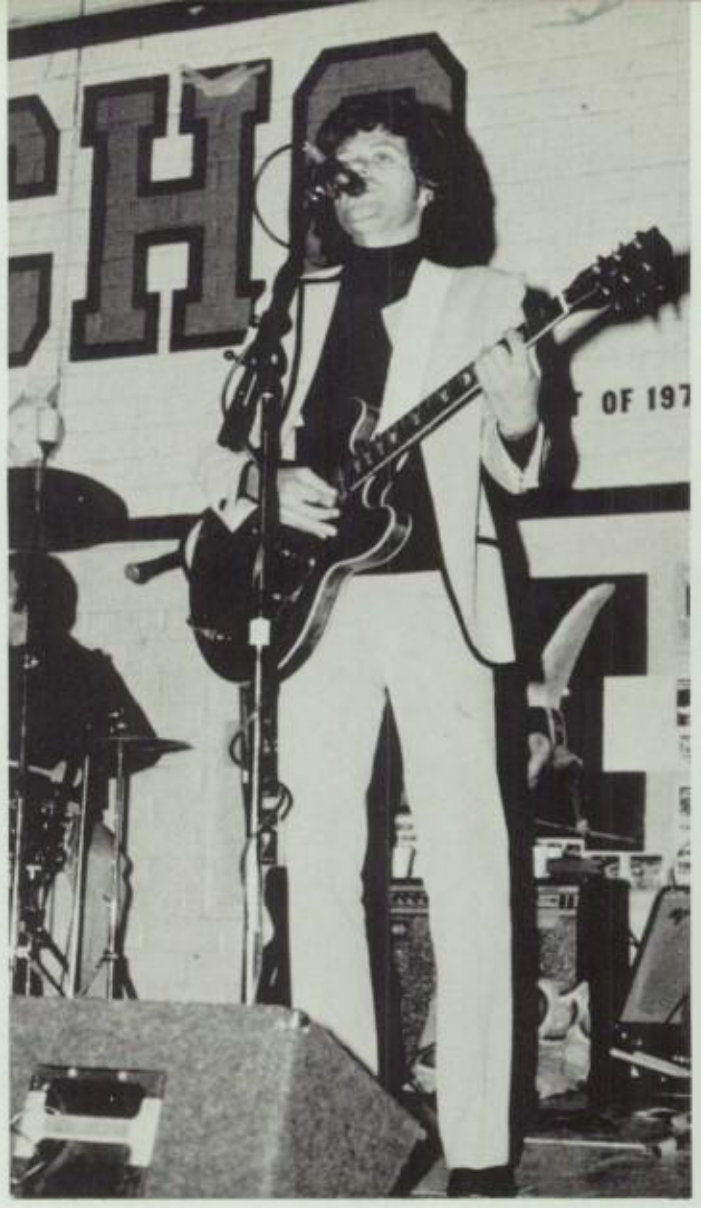
As guest speaker, Mr. Ken Jones arrived early that morning with a crowd waiting for him.

Peggy Bell, who was one of the twelve different seminar leaders, listens to ideas from different schools about various topics.

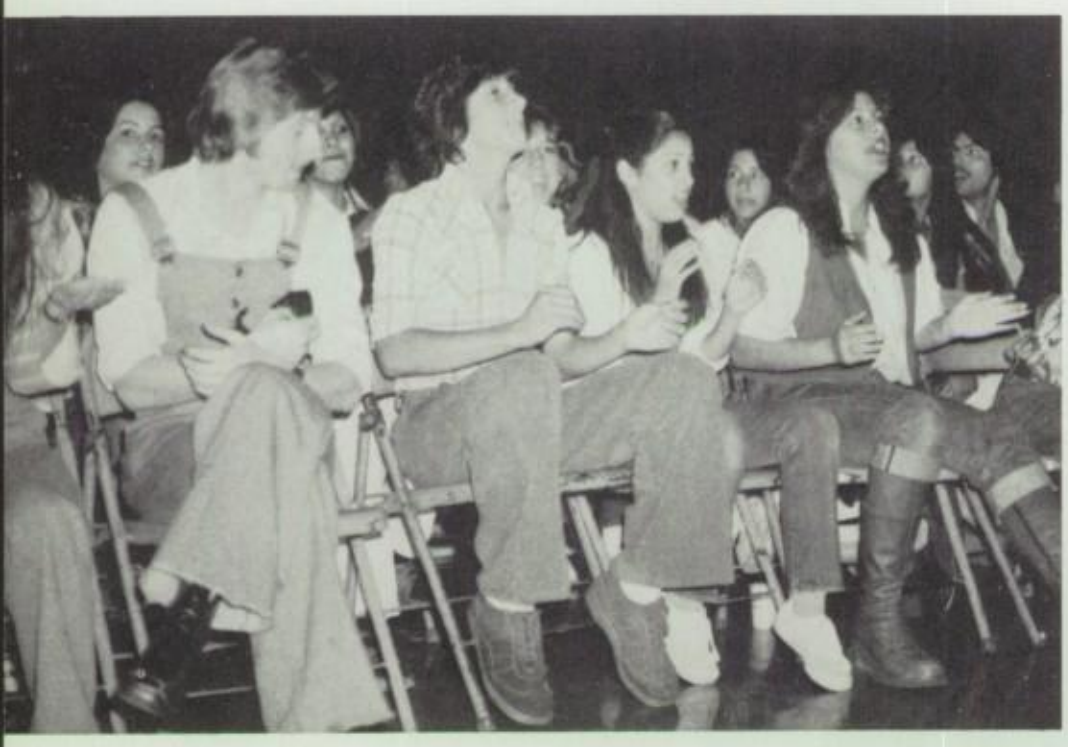
Rain, Rain

Don't Go Away!

Rain performed songs written by themselves and also the songs written by the Beatles.



The entertainment of Rain's lead singers touched the hearts of many.



The audience clearly made the Rain concert a successful activity.

Singing with the style of the Beatles, Rain influenced the audience.

1979 was the fifth year that Rain, a rock group whose sound is similar to that of the Beatles, gave a concert at El Rancho. On Friday, March 9, Rain played to a large crowd of El Rancho students and Beatlemaniacs in the Gym. In their performance, which lasted two hours, Rain played many familiar Beatles compositions, as well as some of their own material. The energetic music of Rain prompted the excited and aroused audience to scream, yell, whistle, dance and, in the case of a few lovestruck girls, swoon. The concert, an event anxiously looked forward to by many, stirred the crowd immensely. The audience was so taken with the music being played that they asked Rain to do several encores. The songs which received the most response from the audience was "Happy Birthday," and "Revolution," during which many of those attending formed lines and "marched" around the Gym. The music provided by Rain and the antics of the crowd combined to make the concert a memorable event for all who attended.

Each moment of the Rain concert was filled with excitement.

The audience, along with the performers, played an important role at the concert.

Sharp, Not Dull

As Tracy Barcelona and Musky Mejia find it difficult to move from where they are standing, hypnotist Joyce Sharp and her assistant, junior Brenda Manzanares, find it hard to keep from laughing.

On Thursday, March 15, an interesting and hilarious event took place in the Gym. Joyce Sharp, an educator and professional hypnotist, gave a demonstration showing how people can be controlled through hypnosis. Several El Rancho students volunteered to be hypnotized. The volunteers were seated on a platform in the center of the Gym. The fun began when the volunteers fell into a hypnotic state after relaxing and concentrating on a revolving spiral. Ms. Sharp then asked the participants to act out several different scenes, such as a bicycle race, an encounter with an alien being in outer space, a reaction to seeing familiar people in a funny movie, and a reaction to meeting a favorite movie star. Ms. Sharp also asked the participants to display a number of emotions, ranging from fear to anger.

One of the funniest scenes the students were asked to perform was, how would they react if the object of their affection were standing in front of them? The reaction of the volunteers moved the audience to fits of uncontrollable laughter.

Another very amusing part of the shos was when the students were asked to imagine themselves as famous celebrities. Some of the celebrities portrayed by the students were Burt Reynolds (Roy Arroyo), Farrah Fawcett-Majors (Helia Reyes), Starsky & Hutch (Tracy Barcelona and Musky Mejia), and Charlie's Angels (Melody McCormick, Sara Marquez, and Cynthis Alvarado).

The show ended with the participants singing the Mouseketeers' closing song. After the show, one of the participants, senior Tracy Barcelona, gave this account of how it felt to be hypnotized:

"It was weird! I knew what I was doing, yet I had no control over my actions."

Another volunteer, Senior Art Valeriano, also felt the same way:

"I felt like I was dreaming, but I know I was awake. It was a strange feeling."

Many people who watched the show thought that the volunteers were just acting, but they were not; the reactions of the students were real and unrehearsed. The show proved to many skeptics that hypnosis is real, and not just an act.

Defense!!

Defense. There is just one word for El Rancho's defense. Notorious. Yes, that is what the fans were saying to one another after each football game. Coach Mike Forge, the brilliant defensive coordinator gives credit to Joe Gavaldon, Mike Vasquez, Anthony Munoz, and Anthony Garcia for making their defense the number one defense in all of the San Gabriel Valley League. Although they were not very big in size, they fought hard week after week toward their goal of being number one. Their defense was so tough at all times that they gave up the fewest amount of points in the SGVL. Even though the team's season record was 4-6, they still made it into the Southern Conference Playoffs.

As the result of many injuries, El Rancho lost to Pacifica in the first round by the score of 24-0. It was an extremely hard fought game because both teams were psyched-up. Coach Peterson said, "If the team had only worked a little harder they could have gone all the way." And as it turned out, the students and teachers are still very proud of the varsity team.

El Rancho's swim team has ended another winning season. Throughout their season they compiled a jubilant 9-2-1 record. Under Head Coach Doug Anderson, the team proved to be very exciting. Their team was so good that they sent 4 people to the league finals. They were: J.R. Bojorquez, Victor Menchaca, Dave Nakashima, and Steve Nakashima. The medley relay team received second in the league. And in doing so they tied the school record with an outstanding time of 1:49.2. So watch out for next year's team, because they'll be back.

The J.V. team this year proved to be extremely competitive. The swim team had a terrific season which consisted of 10 wins and only one loss. With that record, the team sent two people and their medley to the finals. In her first year, Priscilla Valdez took league honors in the 100 back stroke, and Marilee Carlson also took a first in the 100 butterfly. And as for the medley relay team, well, they outperformed everybody and won first place in the league finals.

The sophomore swimming team had an outstanding record of 7-5. They were led by Larry Perez, Lionel Neder, and Bryan Visnoski. Their season proved to be very challenging.

The Varsity Baseball team this year has 6 returning lettermen to the team. Coach Allyn Reed was extremely proud of the way the team handled themselves on the field and off the field. He also stated that although the team was young, it was very mature and experienced. The team was led by fine pitching by ace pitcher Jay Ortega, by reliever Roman Palomar, and an all-out team effort. Coach Reed also remarked that with all that experience it was the best team he has ever coached. And of course, the team had another winning season.

Although his team was young and inexperienced, they showed the utmost respect for one another. This year's sophomore baseball team had a very successful season. For a time they were undefeated in league play and tied for first place. On the field the sophomores were led by Ray Kiralla at second base, John Del Campo at short-stop, and Larry Perez in center field. Next year's varsity will be well represented by these young men.

Strong But Soft

The Girls' Varsity Baseball team was about the strongest team El Rancho has had in the last couple of years. The team this year had seven returning letterpersons. Five out of the seven are expected to repeat as first team all leaguers in the 4a Division. Coach Julie Ellis was proud of her team and gave special recognition to Linda Lacher (captain), Jerri Lacher, Melissa Mc Evers, Roberta Garcia, Jane Ketelsleger, and Jane Navalta, for making the team what it was.

Not Too Rough For Girls

The J.V. Team that was made up of mostly juniors started off the season with a pre-league record of 1-2. But when league play rolled around they started off with an impressive victory over a strong Dominguez team by the score of 12-4. This was only a taste of what was to come. According to Coach Cory Vega, who was the 1975 Athlete of the Year, her young team conducted themselves like a championship team and also played like a championship team. They finished the season with explosive victories everywhere.

Terrific Tracksters

The track team was coached by Rod Ferguson an ex-El Rancho trackman. The team started out the year with big wins over powerful teams. The track team was led by CIF-bound shot putter Mike Lucero and by miler David Martinez. The team finished the season with four people going to CIF.

The JV Team was coached by Bob Paholsky. He was really proud of the fact that the team showed not only good discipline but good sportsmanship. Coach Paholsky also expects many of his members to go to the CIF Finals next year as varsity members. The JV's ended the season with an impressive record.

The tennis team was a fairly young one this year with only four returning letterman. The work was mostly done by Seniors- Gary Sosa, Benny Vasquez, and Juniors- Paul Lacombe and Glenn Bustamante. The other four spots were filled by seniors who had winning seasons on J.V.'s last year. The team started off the season very strong and faced a really strong schedule later in the season. Coach Steve Hartman was proud of his young team because of their constant hard work and positive attitude.

Golfers Teed-Off And Swinging

As the golf season got under way, looking ahead to the San Gabriel Valley League season, the major problem facing Coach Joe Osterman was finding a fifth and sixth man to provide the depth that would be needed if the Dons were to be contenders for the league championship. Returning for their third year of varsity competition, Chuck and Steve Navarro provided a strong one-two punch in the top two spots; Sophomore Brock Dalton showed every evidence of adding a third score in he seventies, and Gus Campos filled the fourth spot with scores in the eighties. With a scoring system that totals the low five scores of six players, the other two spots were wide open. Returning letterman John Cuccia faced a struggle for a starting job, being challenged by a group of sophomores which included Eddie Baeza, Dan Mata, Eddie Gutierrez and Doug Bockover. Junior Jesse Pantoja and Senior James Caccioppo had also become contenders.

Practice season losses to Schurr and Arcadia, both teams with depth, served to emphasize the Don's problem. In four losses to these teams, playing each on a home and home basis, El Rancho led each match through the first three finishers, but faltered in the last three men to lose the matches. With the league season rapidly approaching, the need for improvement and a set lineup in the lower ladder positions was becoming a vital necessity. As of this deadline, the El Rancho team had three more practice matches in which to get the problem resolved. The outcome was definitely in doubt.

Twice In A Row

Participating for their second year here at El Rancho were the Los Angeles Rams. The Rams played a basketball game against the coaches of the entire El Rancho School District. The game, which took place in the Gym on March 8, was won by the Rams, who scored 104 points. The coaches, even though they attained only 88 points in the game, were winners also. Through ticket sales, they were able to raise money for the benefit of the Boys' Athletic Commission. After the game, many wellknown Rams signed autographs for the crowd, and thus provided them with souvenirs to take home.

Year Full Of Memories

The people of the Sophomore Class were first known as "Only Sophomores". But as the year went on they earned the reputation of being hard-working, active, and spirited. The amount of unity showed by this class throughout the year was incredible. It represented not only their enthusiasm but also their desire to win "Class of the Year".

I have heard many compliments on the uniqueness of this Sophomore Class. The amount of spirit and pride they showed toward their class and school was known by all. The Class of '81 has proved that Sophomores can be outstanding.

This has truly been a year full of memories. I would like to thank the Sophomore Class for being such "Super Sophs!". Without your help and support nothing would have been accomplished. It has been an honor to represent you.

Thanks again,

Test Becomes Required

All students, starting with the class of 1981, were made aware of the new requirements for graduation. The recently enacted Hart Bill requires high school students to prove that they can read, write, and do basic math before receiving a high school diploma. The bill requires school districts to adopt minimum standards of proficiency in the areas of math, reading, and language. Students in grades 9 to 12 are tested in these basic skills each year. Students who fail to pass the test must take a class or course to remediate the deficiency. Seniors who fail to acquire passable test scores in each basic skill area will not be eligible to receive a diploma.

Sophomores listen attentively to directions for the proficiency test.

They Had "Pep Rally" Spirit

Sophomores participated actively in athletics too.

At the first pep rally, the Sophomores proved to the other classes that they had spirit, too. Our cheering and participation in school activities made us strong contenders for Class of the Year. One of the activities we actively participated in was float building. Float building took a great deal of time and patience. Many Sophomores met after school in the gym to construct our float. Our hard work and competitive spirit produced a float that finished second in the competition.

Scapegoats Of All

Sophomores. The scapegoats to both of the upper classes. All sophomores usually had the honor of receiving at least one bad remark from someone each day. The sophomores kept the daily criticism, however, within themselves like brave young warriors entering another day at battle. Before the end of the first semester things changed for these souls, and with a determination brought forth by all of them, they proved to be one of the more outstanding classes on campus. Their spirit was shown in activities such as Homecoming, pep rallies, food drives and what not. By the end of the year, other classes respected these fine young people and scapegoats they were no more.

An Enjoyed Class

This is the back of the Sophomore Homecoming float which was awarded 2nd place.

One of the favorite classes of the sophomore class became Driver's Education. Since junior high they have been looking forward to be in this class. In here they learn the abiding rules of becoming a driver, test, and view horrid blood-gushing movies that warn them of what to expect after they have become legally licensed drivers. In this class, students also learned about sex and the causes of venereal disease. In the second quarter of this class, health and first aid was taught to students. Films on these subjects were also shown. At the end of this course, students were given student licenses and taught to drive and manuver the automobile in the school parking lot.

ORGANIZATIONS

At most assemblies, Roy Arroyo addressed the audience with a welcome speech.

Doing a little "cha-cha", Laura Navalta shows off at the Redlands Student Conference.

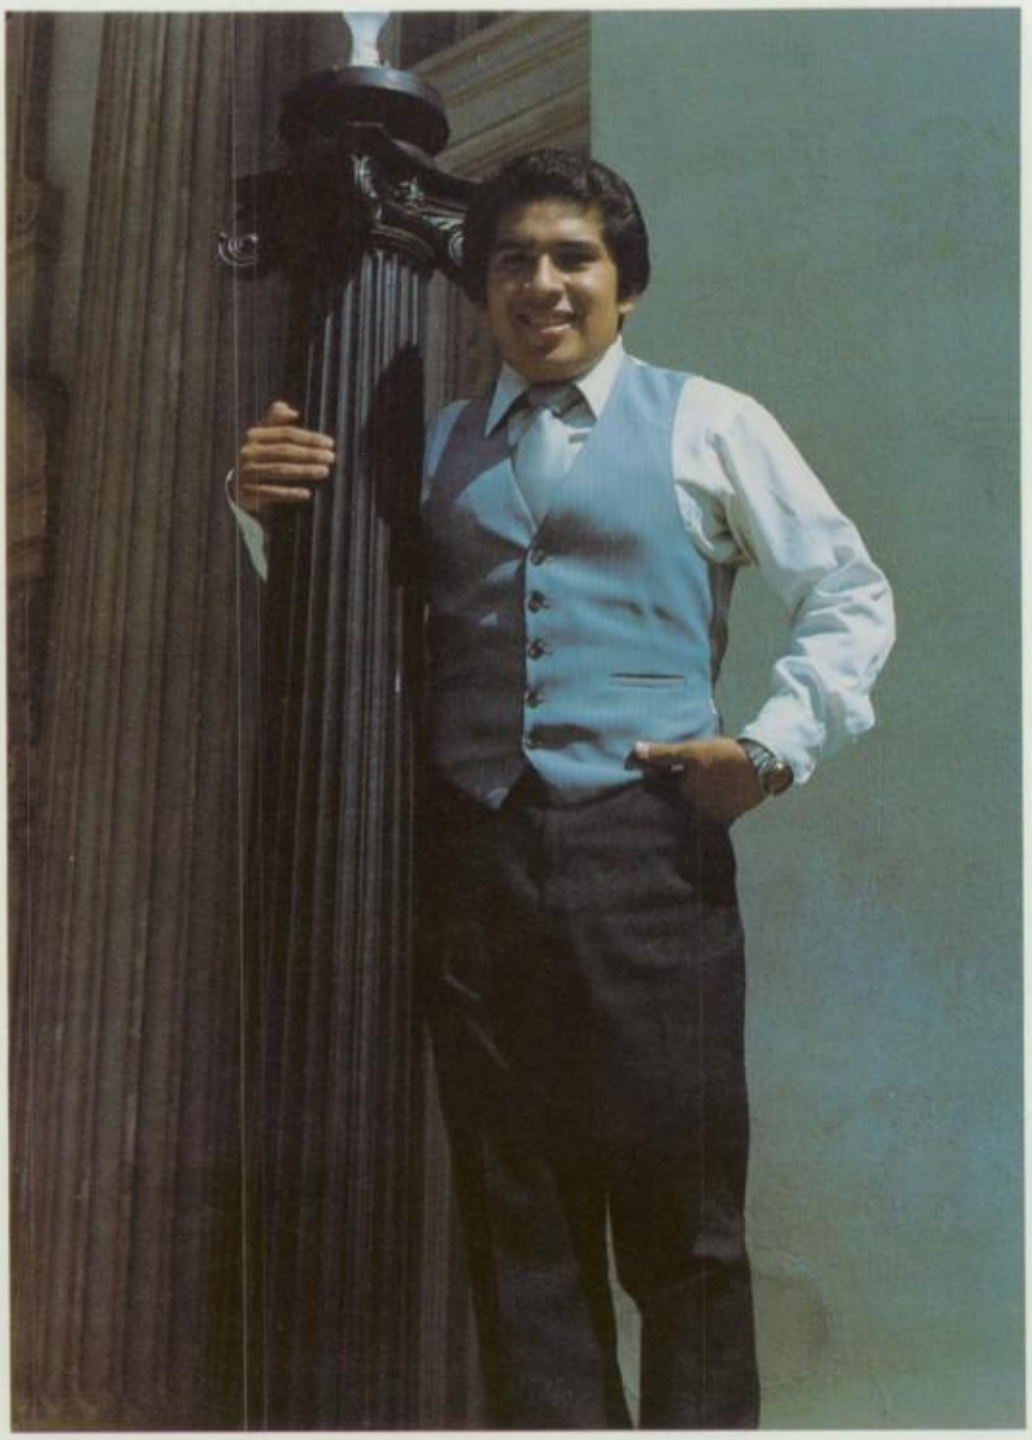
Performance Above Individual Tasks



Roy Arroyo
ASB President

Elected to their respective duties, three determined students set out new horizons for their jobs last spring. They had one main job which was to represent the student body of El Rancho and above that their individual tasks. Roberta Lozano kept minutes up to date as each meeting of the Executive Commission passed into the past. Roberta also maintained correspondence with other schools, persons, organizations and what-not that involved the student body. All this became her job as ASB Secretary.

As ASB Vice President, Laura Navalta kept busy all year long. She had to organize not only the Elections Committee but also the Senate. Her job constantly motivated her. In January, she visited Washington D.C. and attended the Presidential Classroom. Here along with many other students from all over the country, she learned all about national government. Finally, Roy Arroyo, as ASB President found every day of the year occupied. Attending board meetings, presiding over executive meetings and what-not were just a few tasks among his daily duties.

The ASB officers completed another year of involvement, hard work, and decisions but with the determination they put together, they did their jobs well.

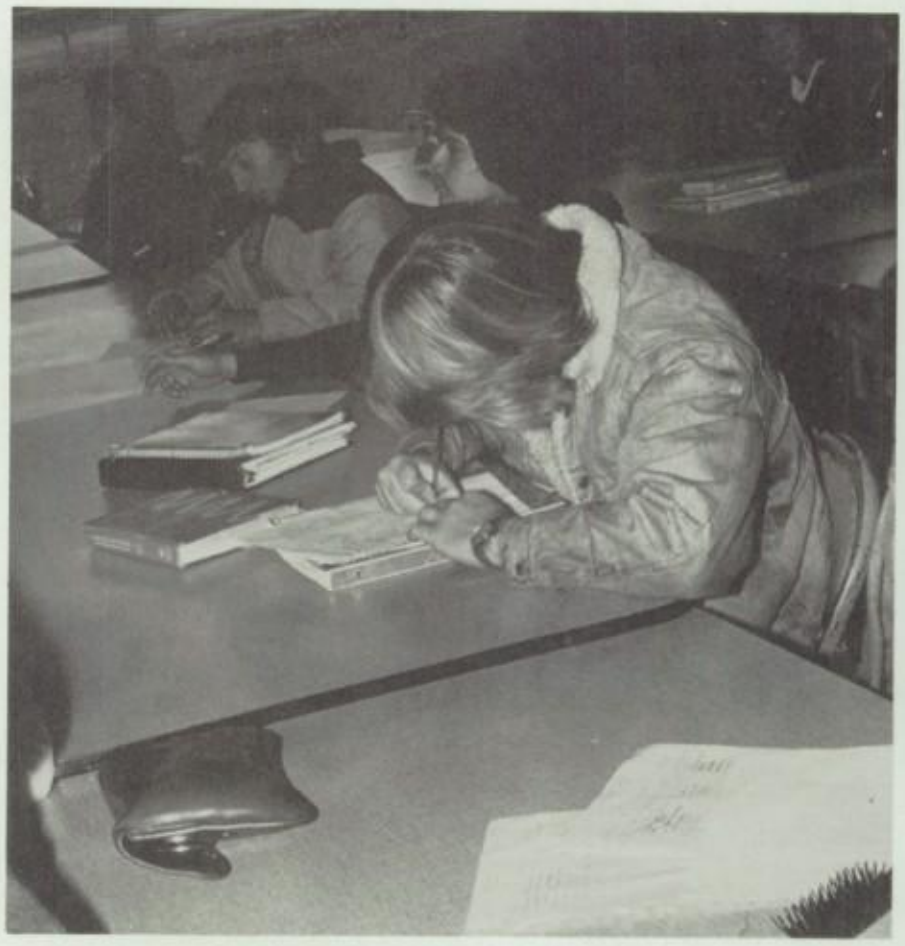
Leadership Organization

The Senate, which was made up of all current representatives of El Rancho's clubs and commissions, was responsible for passing out bills and certifying the validity of school organizations. At Senate meetings, club representatives discussed new bills and plans for several school activities. To give school organizations a fair chance to raise funds for their activities, the Senate saw to it that no two clubs sold candy or other items at the same time. Each club representative reported back to his respective club to inform the members of any new developments at El Rancho.

The House of Representatives, an organization responsible for passing laws involving the students, was made up of representatives selected from each homeroom class, class representatives elected by the student body, a secretary, and a speaker. House members voted on bills and petitions brought up at the meetings. Homeroom representatives reported the results of the meetings back to their classes to keep them informed of the issues that were discussed.



Students sign the roll sheet during the meetings.

Those "First Period" Blahs

Oh! The oohs and ahs of first period. Many students had classes like English or math first period. Twenty of El Rancho's students, however, had a class different than the usual. The class-student government; the students-the Executive Commission.

The Executive Commission, otherwise known as "Exec", met first period every morning for meetings, discussion, plans and other such things. Each club sale, assembly and activity on campus was passed by this commission. "Exec" became not only fun, but also work-work for the students and also the advisor Miss Battu.

In the twenty Executive Commission members there were 4 ASB officers, 3 class presidents, 2 editors, 6 commissioners, a Chief Justice, Speaker of the House, and 1 Girl's League president. "Exec" visited both Redlands and Sacramento for student conferences and also sponsored a conference of our own here at El Rancho.

All Girls Were Members.

Girls' League of El Rancho consisted of all girls on campus. Each girl was eligible to participate in many different activities and events. The Girls' League Board was made up of elected officers who were: Jill Mosqueda, President; Sandra Deniz, 1st Vice President; Kim Lopez, 2nd Vice President; Audrey Griego, Sec/Tres; Debbie Rowell, Sunshine Chairperson; and Merline Kuleen, Publicity Chairperson. They were responsible for the planning and organization of Girls' League activities such as the Doll Contest and the Christmas Stocking Contest. The big event for all girls and mothers was the "Mother-Daughter Dessert". Buddy Greene, a well known performer, entertained all who were at the dessert. The Representatives picked a Junior girl to represent Jr. Belle of the Month at the dessert. Good grooming, posture, friendliness, school spirit, and good citizenship were taken into consideration to choose the winner, who was Reyna Plascencia. Dec. 9 was the Girls' League Formal "Garden of Paradise" Dance, which was one of the highlights of the year. Another well known event was Coed Capers, and the Cotton Day Dress contest. The Girls' League Board was also joined by Representatives from each P.E. class. This group helped in many different ways, such as selling tickets, and cooperating and helping out with various activities. With the assistance of their dedicated advisor, Miss Banks, many of their activities turned out to be great success. At the end of the year a last assembly was held for the Installation of the new Girls' League Board. Each leaving Board Member handed her position over to the new Board members for another fine job to be done.

El Rancho's Judicial Branch, otherwise known as the Student Council, was made up of thirteen people. The Council acted as the interpreters of the Associated Student Body Constitution and was the only service group on campus. Membership in this group required application, interview, and appointment. The students selected had the opportunity to help and serve A.S.B. students at the football games as well as other places. They also had candy sales during the year, and met frequently in the A.S.B. room to plan new activities.

The Student Council's uniform consisted of a pullover sweater (which bore an El Rancho emblem) worn over dark slacks. The boys wore blue sweaters, and white sweaters were worn by the girls. The Council members proudly wore their uniform to many varsity football games.

The Council worked hard to maintain order among the students at the games, and they had to deal with the numerous complaints the students had. In spite of all this, they managed to keep up their respectable image.

One of the most outstanding events the Council sponsored was a Christmas party for the handicapped. The group also worked with other organizations such as The John Tracy Clinic, The Oralingua School For the Deaf, and The Orthopedic Hospital. All the work that the council did gained them the reputation of being one of the most respected groups on campus.

Far Left; With the tough job of collecting sno-cone money, Caryn Edgemon participates in the El Grito Student Council booth.

Jill Mosqueda, Merline Kuleen, and Melody Mc Cormick brainstorm for upcoming activities for the council.

Moving Into The City's Government

On February 22, twenty-one seniors were elected to what is called Youth in Government. Each of these young people, according to his or her office, learned, in much more detail, about the city's government.

The Youth in Government program is one where these seniors are enabled to replace one particular office position in the city's government, and be in that position for one council meeting. On May 11, in City Hall, the program took place. After months of research, with the help of advisors Connie Battu, Jim Kane, and Steve Kennedy, these students put on an unforgettable performance that day.

To make the program even more attractive, Youth in Government went on a day-long excursion to Sacramento. There, they had the privilege to get to understand the State's government even more. After a luncheon, the tour of the Capitol, and talks with many new people, they flew home with a greater knowledge of the government.

Members of this group strung cards and designed and painted colorful signs to cheer the athletes on to victory. The Pep Commission, which included the Pepsters, sold candy apples at the beginning of the school year to pay for their picture in the yearbook. Led by Pep Commissioner Norma Ramos, the Pep Commission was a very active group and worked very hard to promote school spirit at El Rancho.

Keeping Students Moving

Keeping El Rancho students busy was the main job of the Activities Commission. Members of this group used their imagination to create activities which were both fun and interesting to the students. This creative group was responsible for the planning of Homecoming, dances, spring activities, fun days, and other events at El Rancho. The Activities Commissioner, Larry Vega, worked with the members of the commission to arrange many of the El Rancho events.

Striving For Honors

Striving for higher scholastic achievement, the California Scholastic Federation is recognized as a state-wide scholastic organization for high school students. This organization honors students who have received ten grade points or more in at least four academic subjects during a semester. These intellectually elite students represent El Rancho High School in many of the local and statewide activities.

This year the C.S.F. sponsored trips to a few colleges. They also went to the annual Disneyland Night for C.S.F. members only. Mr. Chuck Faught is the advisor of this group of scholastic achievers who represent our school well.

Pepsters Head Enthusiasm

If you ever attended a pep rally or assembly, you more than likely saw El Rancho's Pepsters performing. Your first reaction to them might have been "Anybody can be a pepster!" Well, contrary to popular belief, being a pepster requires a significant amount of time as well as effort.

Pepster workshops began last April and May numerous girls tried out for their desired positions. After meeting certain grade requirements and passing a panel of judges, the girls then performed in front of the student body. The student body voted and selected 8 girls for each squad, Yell Leaders, Songleaders and Flagsters.

Following their election, they practiced throughout a seemingly long summer and participated in a San Diego workshop. Learning football cheers and fight song routines occupied them so much that each squad had to practice an average of 2 hours a day.

Practicing wasn't the only thing that pepsters were busied with. Bake sales brought in much of the money that paid for workshop and day uniforms, shoes, etc. If you ever happened to pass by Alpha Beta on a Saturday, you probably could see pepsters pushing their cookies and cupcakes.

The strenuous and time-consuming shedule wasn't all that each pepster had to maintain. A good attitude was the most important factor. How else would they have been able to cope with a uniform company that didn't deliver until half the football season was over? or to paint signs every Monday after school? Not many people would even bother with such minor jobs but the pepsters handled each responsibility with maturity.

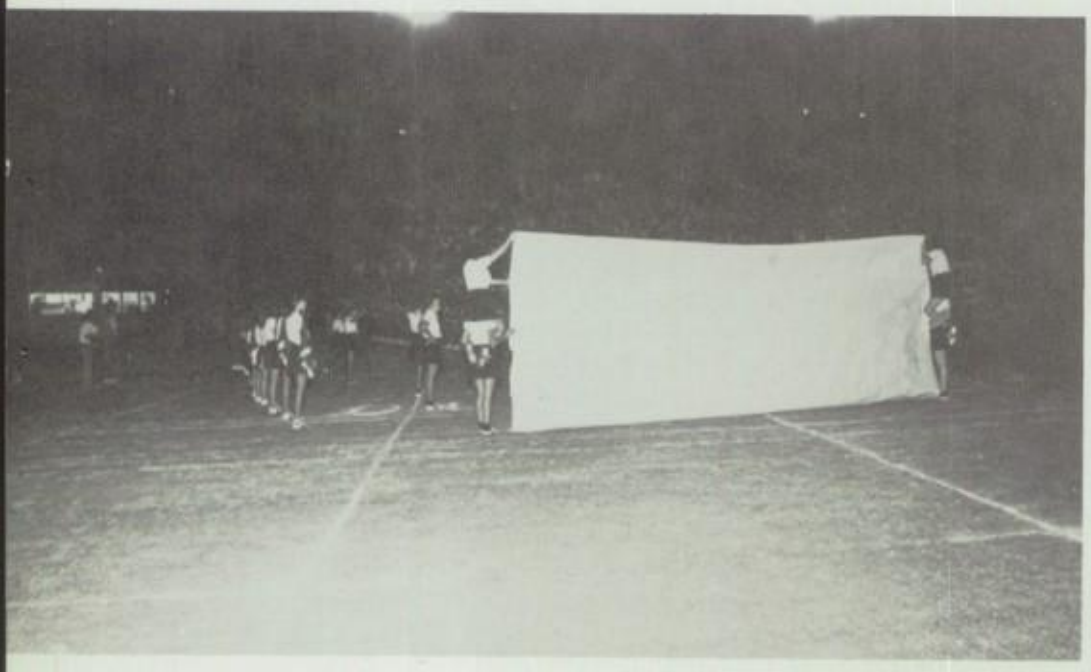
At a Friday night football game, Elaine Cegarra completes the traditional fight song.

With a specially-planned chain reaction, the Flagsters perform with smiles.



One of the many tasks, yet a fun-filled activity, is the line up for the varsity team.

Clapping and also stomping can be a pepsters' pride as shown by Veronica Anchondo.

"Go Big Blue" exclaimed Patti Gomez while she completed the routine.

Jumps, kicks, splits, and turns are a part of the songleader routine.

Girls With Never Ending Spirit

The one thing that El Rancho High has always prided itself on is school spirit. Through both winning and losing seasons, students maintained a high level of enthusiasm and supported their teams wholeheartedly. Retaining that student interest is the true job of the pepsters.

For the past few years, simply leading cheers didn't seem to satisfy pep rally audiences so every squad became professional entertainers. Flagsters began twirling flags around their legs, necks, and each other. Tossing flags to each other added another highlight. Songleaders incorporated a variety of dance steps including disco and jazz to create a style of their own. Creating unusual movements and words, the yell leaders captivated audiences with humorous routines and death-defying stunts.

Practicing for such performances made up only a small part of each pepster's responsibility. Attending football, baseball, waterpolo and basketball games required the organization of a good time schedule which allowed for the completion of homework and the baking of goodies to be given to the teams. Besides these activities, many girls were also involved with other organizations which demanded even more of a tight schedule.

The work of each girl paid off in several different ways. Both flagsters and yell leaders placed in the top five of their divisions at the fall Arroyo competition. By raising money through candy and bake sales, the pepsters financed a four day excursion to Big Bear where they endured, and enjoyed, a great blizzard.

The success of the pepsters depended mainly on the attitudes of all its members but several people generously contributed their time and effort. Heads Nancy Tani, Songleader, Gina Cuccia, Flagster, and Patti Gomez, Yell Leader, often pulled through for their squads in tight situations. The sincere interest of Advisor Julie Ellis inspired many to work hard while her sense of humor created a humorous and relaxed atmosphere.

During the Welcome Assembly, the pepsters await Norma Ramos to announce their squad.

Team Marches On

The Donnette Drill Team, led by Melody Mc Cormick and Kristi Ramlo, was one of El Rancho's busiest groups. They spent countless hours practicing and preparing their routines for their colorful performances at half time shows. They marched in the El Crito parade, and in several other local parades as well. When they weren't performing, the Donnettes sold buttons and El Rancho pens to finance their many activities. They also held a newspaper drive and sponsored a canned food drive. Ms. Barbara Hagler, Drill Team advisor, worked with the girls to help them perfect their routines and assisted them with their fund-raising activities. Through their hard work, the Donnettes were able to accomplish the feat of proudly keeping up the spirit of El Rancho.

Enthusiastic Foreign Language Students

The International Club, composed of the French, German, and Spanish Clubs, was one of the most active organizations at El Rancho. To raise money for their annual banquet, each of the clubs were kept busy all year selling candy, granola bars; and at Christmastime, ornaments and calendars. The French, German, and Spanish Clubs, advised by Ms. Edwina Rollo, Ms. Diane Malazian, and Ms. Mildred Pulido respectively, met frequently to discuss plans for new activities and to plan for the banquet.

Band: Different Strokes For Different Folks

The Don Marching Band was one of the largest student organizations at El Rancho. Consisting of over fifty talented musicians, the Marching Band had to practice constantly in order to give excellent performances at halftime shows and at many local parades. Leading the Marching Band was Drum Major Albert Cortez.

El Rancho's Concert Band played at many school assemblies, including the Christmas Program. They toured frequently, and played all types of music, ranging from classical to pop, to satisfy everyone's musical tastes.

The Stage Band, a musical group whose primary interest was jazz music, played at pep rallies, various assemblies, and sometimes performed along with the Concert Band.

Under the direction of Mr. William Eads, the El Rancho bands were able to put on fine performances for the enjoyment of all.

The Choraleers were the most talented singing group on campus. They performed at various school assemblies during the year, but school was not the only place they sang. The Choraleers were often invited to perform for many musical engagements.

Concert Choir was the largest musical singing group on campus. For the past twenty years they have been invited to perform at Disneyland's Annual Christmas Candlelight pageant. The Concert Choir also sang at El Rancho's annual Christmas program.

One main feature of El Rancho's Christmas program was the Girls Glee. The members of this singing group were taught how to sing, and were participants in the talent shows and concerts El Rancho holds every spring.

Taking A Trip

To New York

This year the Drama Club had been opened to students who were interested in working together in skits and plays which they produced throughout the year. They kept up the tradition of being a very active club, as they have been in past years. They started out the year with trips to T.V. shows such as "What's Happening?". They also went to see the well-known motion picture "The Wiz". These shows were enjoyed by everyone because they helped many drama members get an idea of what acting is all about.

The most exciting activity the Drama Club did this year was to take their second annual trip to New York City. The trip took place during Christmas vacation. The students paid the total cost themselves. While on the excursion, the students toured the city and attended a few Broadway plays.

The Drama Club was a success once again this year, thanks to the help and supervision of their dedicated advisor, Ms. Miller.

Agape is a word used to describe the early Christians and the love they had for their brothers. Agape was made up of members from many religions. The Bible was the base of this club, and was read and discussed daily among the members of the club. At Agape meetings held every morning before school, the members learned about life and Christ. Many members took it upon themselves to give talks about various chapters of the Bible. Advisor Ms. Joy Tanigawa and club President David Soto arranged for the Agape members to sell candy so they could purchase Bibles, Bible pamphlets, and sponsor bands which performed in the Quad.

A Newly Appointed Advisor

What A Way To Spend The Year!!!

Over 20 semi-sane, semi dedicated, and semi-organized people put together the 1979 Por El Ano. Everyone shared their part of the publication in their own way. A new system was established for the staff. David Contreras, layout editor, along with Jeanette La Pointe and their staff were responsible for the design of each page within the yearbook. Patricia Martinez, as copy editor, had the difficult task of making sure all copy, captions, identification and headlines were in at the time of each deadline. Lori Moyes, the staff's photo editor, was in charge of getting pictures for all parts of the book. Doing business for the staff were Merline Kuleen and Jeannie Espinoza as co-business editors making sure all advertisements were up to date. A collection of devoted photographers fulfilled the needs of the staff at any place, date, or hour. Loren Rodriguez as editor-in-chief made sure all editors and staff members kept busy. His job also included maintaining correspondence with the student body, which became quite difficult at times. Connie Battu was mainly responsible for keeping the ceiling from collapsing into room B-101. New at this type of advisory job, she was rewarded with screams and questions from all, not to mention the headaches which derived from this. From deadline to deadline, these poor young souls had a pressure upon them that was unimaginable. Drawing layouts, writing copy, cropping pictures, stuffing envelopes and other such tasks became the primary routine duty of the staff. This seemed eternal but somehow they made it and here's the book to prove it.

Active In Athletics

The Athletic Commission was formed to give El Rancho Students the chance to be active in any sport they chose. Members of the Athletic Commission were involved in activities such as redoing the trophy cabinets in the gym, and sponsoring fund-raisers in order to purchase uniforms, sports equipment, and awards. The awards were represented to all athletes who had earned them at the annual Varsity Banquet. Athletes who lettered in any sport automatically became members of the Varsity Club. Commission members, along with commissioners Frank Montejano and Roberta Garcia, worked together to make El Rancho's Athletic Department a success once again.

Welfare: Debbie Belcher, Staci Saenz, Joanne Retanna, Sandie Briones, Yolie Ayala, Cindy Razo, Jill Mosqueda, Laura Robles, Peggy Bell, Theresa Fernandez, Sandra Deniz, Roxanne Carrillo, Debbie Baez, Ed Ramirez, Liz Ortiz, (middle) Nancy Sanchez.

Taking Care Of Business And The Needy!

Students who were interested in a business career joined the FBLA club (Future Business Leaders of America). Led by Ms. Judy Mattingley, the FBLA held fund-raising events to finance their activities, which included several community projects. The FBLA also sponsored a ceremony for recipients of business awards.

The year's events for the Welfare Commission started off with the Canned Food Drive. Each class brought in many cans which were distributed among the needy families of the city. The commission later participated in the Toys for Tots drive. The unity of the club was required when activities for March of Dimes began.

The members of the Welfare Commission, led by commissioner Nancy Sanchez devoted themselves to helping places like the Oralingua School for the Deaf, The John Tracy Clinic, and the Orthopedic Hospital, by donating their time.

Nancy Sanchez addresses her commission with the latest fund raising ideas for March of Dimes.

Preparing for the big event, Nancy Sanchez and Tracy Barcelona pin up posters to remind each student to donate.

The March of Dimes encouraged all to pitch in what they could.

Publishing a newspaper every two weeks was not an easy task for the El Rodeo Staff. Articles had to be written and proofread, pictures had to be taken, type had to be set, and advertisements had to be collected to complete an issue of the newspaper. Editor in Chief, Al Medina, had the responsibility of seeing that everyone on the staff did his job well and met deadlines on schedule. David Martinez, Assistant Editor, helped Al Medina with his duties and took over the staff when Al was absent. News Editors Shelley Rega and Kathy Camper made sure that news articles contained correct information. Opinion Editor, Jim Scott, proofread opinions and helped with the newspaper layout. Feature Editor, Jill Coppick, was in charge of editing all feature stories. Randy Ares, Sports Editor, was responsible for all sports news, and made sure that team scores and statistics were correct and up-to-date. Business Manager, Julie Hogan, collected advertisements for the newspaper. Linda Lewallen, Photo Editor, decided which photographs were appropriate for the newspaper. The rest of the staff, which included typists Jeannette Martinez, Valerie Robles, Sally Nicholas, and Terri Perez, wrote stories and helped each other meet deadlines. Mako Tashima, Printing Advisor, helped the typesetters with their job. News Staff advisor Gary Barton assisted the staff with the writing and publishing of the El Rodeo.

The Voting Booth

The Elections Committee was responsible for the organization of all elections for the student body. Led by advisor Ms. Connie Battu and Student Body Vice-President, Laura Navalta, the committee worked hard to make ballots and set up voting booths for the students. Students used computer cards to cast their votes, which were then fed into the IBM computer or scantron to add up the votes. Election results were posted in the window of the Activities Office.

Learning Responsibility And Leadership

The El Rancho Marine Corps Junior Reserve Officers Training Corps was one of the most disciplined and hard-working groups on campus. R.O.T.C. members marched in numerous parades throughout the year, and presented the colors at football games and assemblies. R.O.T.C. members also participated in the flag raising ceremony held in the Quad every morning before school. Advisors Captain William Steinken and Gunner Sergeant Apolonio Moreno taught the students self-discipline, self-reliance, responsibility, and leadership.

Peanuts And Pesos At The Ranch

"You're a Good Man, Charlie Brown!"

The Drama students of El Rancho entertained us throughout the year by presenting several plays and skits in the Little Theater. One of the first plays put on by the students was "Sunday Costs Five Pesos", which was about a lover's quarrel in Mexico. The actors in this play gave excellent performances, much to the enjoyment of the many E.R. students and teachers who saw it. Ms. Miller helped train the young actors with new techniques of acting.

On March 29th, 30th, and 31st, "You're a Good Man, Charlie Brown" was performed. The play, a musical comedy that appeals to people of all ages, was directed by Mr. Robb Riggs, a new and experienced teacher, and Liz Ortiz, student director.

"You're a Good Man, Charlie Brown" was about a day in the life of Charlie Brown, his friends Lucy, Patty, Schroeder, and Linus, and his faithful beagle, Snoopy. Some of the notable scenes from the play included Lucy's love song to Schroeder, and the glee club rehearsal. One of the scenes which the actors rehearsed several times was the baseball game. This scene required the actors to use pantomime to "show" the game.

The cast consisted of Ed Ramirez as Charlie Brown, Candy Grijalva as Lucy, Jimmy Franco as Snoopy, Ron Sonora as Linus, Leslie Wogberg as Patty, and Art Valeriano as Schroeder. They gave exceptional performances, performing with the style and grace of professional actors. They were well-received by the audience and highly praised for their acting ability. Their hard work and dedication, combined with tlent, helped these students produce a show they could be proud of.

Do you know something, Schroeder?

The Bank of America awarded 16 of El Rancho's outstanding high School seniors in each general field, by their record of achievement, leadership, tolerance, character, personality, regard for others, and civic responsibility and giving the greatest promise of future success and service to society. The 12 certificate winners were chosen by the teachers in different fields of education. The winners of the plaques were awarded and chosen in the same manner as the certificate winners. The 4 plaque winners were eligible to compete with winners from other schools in zone and final competition for further cash prizes ranging from $25.00 to $1,000 in scholarships.

Several students in the Art Department were recipients of awards this year. Seniors Cindy Razo and Diane Artechi submitted portfolios of their work as well as written statements of their interests to the Art Center for Design in Pasadena and each won tuition for one semester at that school.

In the Bill of Rights Contest, sponsored by Coast Federal Savings, the following boys had their posters displayed. Their efforts were acknowledged with a luncheon at the Bonaventure Hoel at which a former Governor of California spoke, Ronald Reagan.

Every month an El Rancho girl is chosen as "Belle of the Month." This honor is bestowed upon a girl who is friendly, nicely groomed, and is never lacking in school spirit. A week before The Girls' League Board meets to select a "Belle," suggestions for "Belle" are placed in a box in the girls' locker room. From these suggestions, one girl is chosen to receive the honor of being "Belle of the Month." At the end of the school year, during the Girls' League elections, El Rancho girls vote for whom they think is most deserving of the title, "Donna of the Year." To be eligible to be "Donna of the Year," a girl must have been chosen as a "Belle" during her sophomore, junior, or senior year. The "Donna of the Year" is announced at the Girls' League officers installation assembly.

I will never forget this year as it has been a memorable one. The class of 80 has made it memorable to all. We have worked hard and have learned many responsibilities, but most of all how to work and communicate with each other. This is the most important because we only have one more year together, and from there we will all go our own ways, and meet different people and that's where we will need to know how to deal with different situations.

The class of 80 has had fun competing and being a part of the class competition activities and will always continue to show the spirit and pride of EL RANCHO.

We have had fun planning and being able to participate in such activities as Powder Puff Football and the Jr. Sr. Prom and I thank all that made this possible.

It has been a great honor to serve as Junior Class President for the class of 1980. But I could not have done it without my class cabinet and fellow class mates that were involved. The class of 80 is the start of something new. We feel we will succeed in many different areas.

Class Participation Creates Great Juniors.

In the past year the Class of '80 showed the competitive spirit that has made El Rancho's Juniors a great class. Junior class participation and spirit made our many activities excel to the height of success. Many activities in which we participated were float building, pep rallies, candy sales, and other school activities. Many of us showed our school spirit by being active in several of the clubs and commissions on campus.

They're only a quarter

One of the most familiar scenes on campus was that of a student buying candy from another student. El Rancho's clubs and commissions sponsored many candy sales throughout the year, and the Juniors were active participants in these sales, working hard to sell candy to pay for various school activities. The juniors found other ways to raise money for school activities. Juniors who were involved in Drill Team or the Pep Commission sold buttons and candy apples. Others got involved by collecting money for the construction of the Junior float. Juniors contributed to the school in any way they could, and their contributions helped make the 1978-79 school year a fun and memorable year for all students.

Small in numbers; big in spirit

The Junior class had the smallest number of students, but that didn't keep them from trying to outdo the other classes. Float building was one event in which the Juniors worked very hard to succeed. Many Juniors attended the float building sessions in the gym after school to construct an excellent float for the Homecoming parade. Patience and hard work were the keys to the making of a successful float.

It seems as though the Junior class won the competition cheer.

Meetings make for mastery

Jose Mejia is in a rush to get to his class.

During the school year, the Juniors held class meetings during lunch to collect many ideas and opinions which were useful in the planning of several Junior activities. Many Juniors faithfully attended these class meetings, and carried out the planned events to the height of success. Cooperation and dedication to the class made the future 1980 graduates contenders for Class of the Year.

Administrators Keep El Rancho Moving On

Keeping the school running at a smooth pace was one of the many responsibilities of El Rancho's administrators. Our principal, vice-princials, and deans worked very hard to maintain El Rancho's reputation of being one of the finest schools in the area.

In his first year as principal, John Sherman undertook the responsibility of making sure that every student had the opportunity to receive an excellent education at El Rancho. Mr. Sherman was assisted in his other duties by three highly capable men, the vice-principals.

Alfred Ogas was our Vice-Principal of Guidance. His job was to help students overcome various problems and difficulties, and he accomplished this task by being friendly and open with the students. Thomas Cunningham, Vice-President of Curriculum, aided the students by making sure that a wide range of studies was available to them. Our Vice-Principal of Activities, Giuseppe Petti, was responsible for supervising activities, chaperoning school events, and directing student activities at El Rancho.

El Rancho's Deans, Howard Hogan (Sophomores), Al Martens (Juniors), and Dan Lopez (Seniors) were in charge of student discipline. They worked with parents and students in solving discipline problems. The Deans also assisted Mr. Ogas with his numerous duties in the Guidance Office.

Problems? See El Rancho's Counselors

Students who had a problem, whether it was personal or academic, could always seek out a counselor for assistance. E.R.'s counselors were always ready to help students with their difficulties. Each class had its own counselor: Sally Yeager was in charge of the Sophomores, Chuck Faught helped the Juniors, and Leon Getz assisted the Seniors. Counselors often held conferences with students and parents to help the students with their problems.

One problem a student often faced was that of deciding which college to attend once he finished high school. Dorothy Fischer, college counselor, helped students with this decision by discussing the students' future plans and goals, and going over college catalogs to find the college which best suited the students' needs. The counselors were always available in the Guidance Office to give a student the help and attention needed to succeed in school and at home.

Preparation For Future

Jobs In Business

El Rancho's Business Department classes were designed to prepare students for future jobs in the business world. Students who were interested in secretarial work took a typing or shorthand class. Students who were interested in other types of office work took a keypunch or office training class. Merchandising classes showed students what it was like to work in a store. All of these classes were helpful in improving the skills of those students who wished to have a career in business.

Students could also take a team class, which was a combination of English and social studies. English classes helped students develop a better vocabulary and understanding of words and word usage.

It was the security agents' duty to keep the halls and quad free of stray students during classes, and they did their job extremely well. Students who roamed the halls during class were frequently stopped by the security guards and strongly urged to go to class.

Some students had a valid excuse for being in the halls during classtime: they didn't feel well, and they were en route to the nurse's office. The nurse's office was responsible for tending to the students' various ailments, real and imagined. The nurse wasn't the only person who attended to the students' needs. Instructional aides helped the students with their problems also. The aides often acted as translators for Spanish speaking students. Teachers who needed an extra hand in correcting papers often turned to the instructional aides, who generously assisted them. The aides were a great asset to the school, and El Rancho was deeply grateful for their help and assistance.

The secretarial staff of El Rancho was composed of competent and efficient women who, in addition to assisting school administrators, aided the school in other ways. The Guidance and Curriculum secretaries worked diligently to keep school records complete and up-to-date. The secretary in the Attendance Office efficiently kept record of student attendance. Being a secretary in the Activities' Office was a demanding job for Ms. Peggy Hunker. She was largely responsible for keeping students informed about school activities and events through the publishing of the daily bulletin.

Doris Edgemon counts to make sure that the necessary amounts of salads have been prepared.

Lydia Orozco, performing an essential duty in the cafeteria kitchen.

The El Rancho cafeteria staff did an excellent job in supplying our hungry students with the essential vitamins and proteins needed for growth. Besides cooking their tasty dishes such as Chow Mein, Pizza, Turkey, and Chili Beans, the cafeteria staff also supplied the "Snack Shack" with delicious food such as Pastramis, Chili Dogs, and Hamburgers. Because there was only one lunch period during the school day this year, the cafeteria staff had to work extra hard to provide our students with nutritious lunches.

The maintenance people were largely responsible for keeping El Rancho spotlessly clean. They also kept the shrubbery neatly trimmed, and in Ms. Schlegel's case, kept the Girls' P.E. equipment and gym clothes in a neat and orderly manner.

Ernie Benavidez, Plant Manager, travels from one area of supervision to the next.

John Gonzales, Groundsman, pauses in his duties of keeping our campus clean and beautiful.

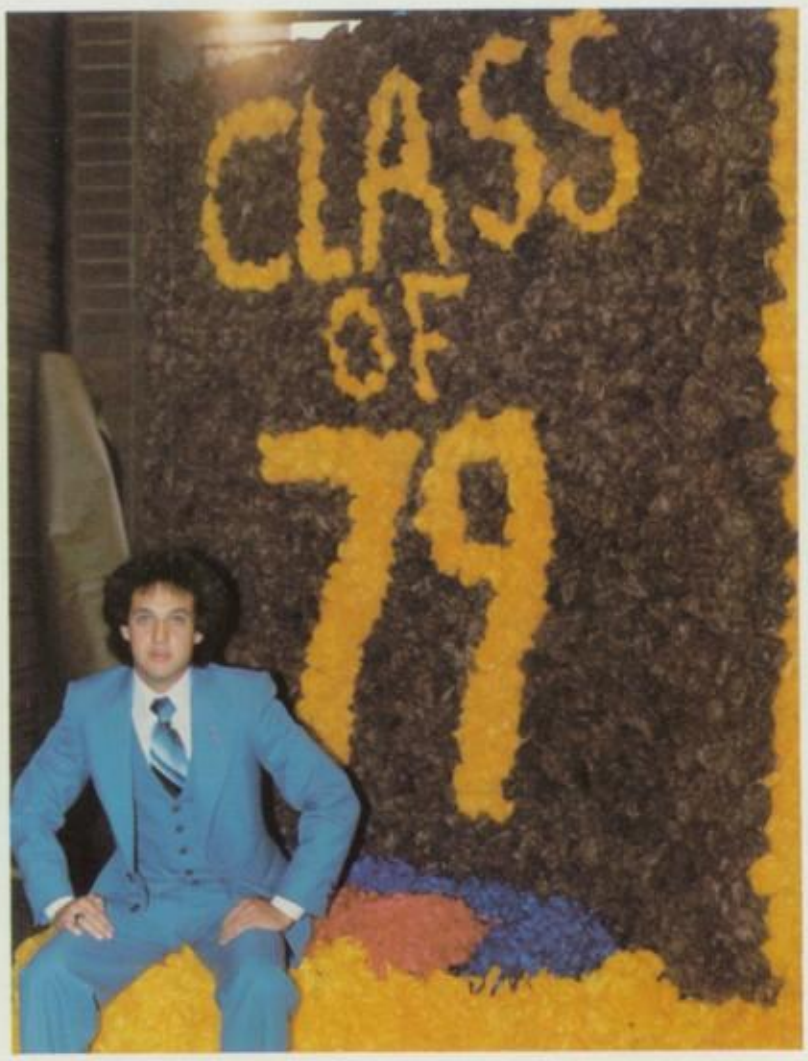
President Reflects Pride



Tracy Barcelona-Sr. Class President

The Class of '79 has been, without a doubt, the most spirited class ever to attend El Rancho. As Sophomores, we showed spirit, pride, enthusiasm, and a desire to be the best. As a result, we earned tbe reputation of a hardworking class and title of "Class of the Year".

As Juniors, we continued to uphold our fine reputation and show our spirit and motivation and became dominate in class competition. As a result of our accomplishments we gained and goals we reached, we were now highly looked upon by our underclassmen.

Now in our last year we can look back at our achievements and the high standards we had set for our class and school and be proud of them. We showed our pride and spirit, but more than before, we showed that we cared about our school. It was hard for many of us this year to continue being involved as we had in the past. We were involved in the many other activities that El Rancho had to offer, trying to make the best of our Senior year, that we seldom had time for class activities. But when the time came we would pull together to get things done. We had made an impression on El Rancho that will not be forgotten.

I wish to express my gratitude to our advisor Ms. Reyna, who was always behind me with encouragement and wise advice. I would also like to thank my cabinet and other classmates who never criticized but always came to me with encouragement and ideas.

Being Senior Class President this year has been great. It has been a privilege serving the Class of '79. I believe that we are a great group of people. We were very successful in our high school years, and I feel that we will continue to be successful in the years to come. I wish all of you the best of luck.

Active students were the key to the success of the class of '79. The Seniors worked hard to promote their class by participating in pep rallies and getting involved in clubs, commissions, and school activities. A sign defines the true spririted senior.

Senior Spirit Soared

One of the many involvements of Seniors, as well as the other classes, was pep rallies. Many Seniors spent a great deal of their time preparing for pep rallies. The night before a pep rally was spent thinking up clever slogans to paint on signs, making confetti, and blowing up balloons. The Seniors' efforts to promote their class did not go by unnoticed. As soon as you walked into the gym to attend a pep rally, you spotted the Senior section immediately. The Senior section was vibrant, colorful, and full of excited students eager to compete with the other classes in the yell competition. As a result of their spirit and careful preparation, the Seniors won many pep rallies.

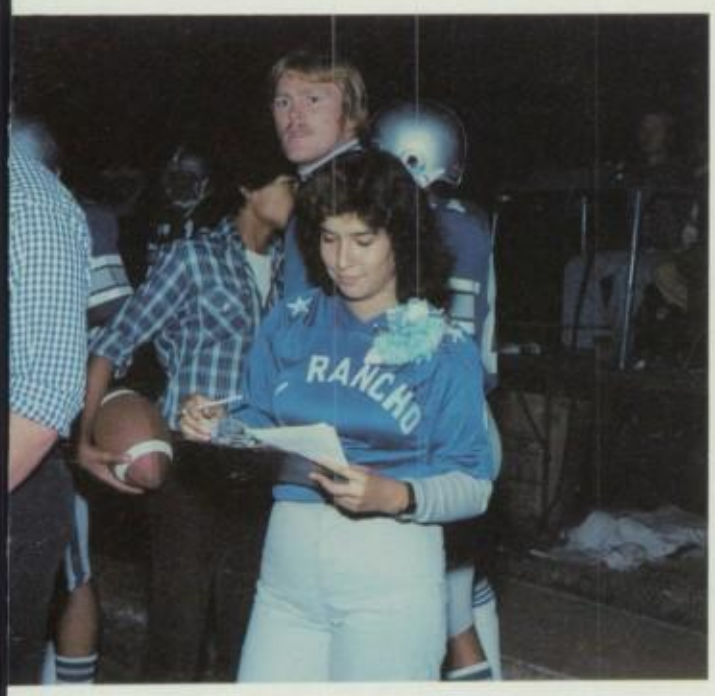
Pride Prompted Spirit

Spirited-that's what seniors was. Their undying spirit and pride in El Rancho were evident in every activity they participated in. From the first moment they arrived at El Rancho, the Class of '79 was determined to show the other classes that they had the potential to become Class of the Year. They got involved in numerous school activities and proved to be successful in accomplishing every goal they set for themselves.



Sandy Briones, a senior statistician keeps account of the football team.

Seniors participated in all activities, even that of band.

What An Awful Pain!

Tracy Barcelona is caught off guard at the alumni luncheon.

What was a real load on seniors became the college entry exams. On a Saturday in the fall and winter, seniors painfully made their way to Whittier College or Sierra H.S. to be burdened with a test. The SAT wasn't half as bad as that of the achievement tests. These college entry exams tested the student on verbal skills, math, history, foreign language, and what not. When seniors received their scores, however, it was almost as bad as the test itself!

College Anyone?

On the track field, Roy Arroyo smiles at the Homecoming.

To many seniors, the library became a very familiar place on campus. In there, with the help of Ms. Fischer, many seniors found out of all college opportunities. Throughout the year, representatives from different colleges came and inform El Rancho's students of the advantages and opportunities of their school. In the college resource center, students found school applications, scholarship forms, and test forms. Daily visits to the library were a routine among seniors.

A Class With Ambition

Some seniors work while others rest, keeping the class going steady at sign painting.

The class of 1979 has been a class of great ambition and has proved to be very challenging at all pep rallies, activities, etc ... Each senior was very proud to be class of the year because each member contributed to the betterment of their class and made it possible for "the high spirited class" to be # 1. In the years to come, the memories of El Rancho will always linger on, for the class of 79 played a very special part in each and every activity in the years they attended the Ranch.

Gina Cuccia gives the prayer at the Homecoming Assembly.

Success!

How did the Class of 1979 become so successful? Mainly because of the class itself which was cooperative and determined. Since their sophomore year this class of over 800 has proved itself one successful class. Every member has volunteered at least once to do something constructive for the class.

Participation was like a secret password through the door of victory. During every event, whether competition or not, the graduates pulled through together for a successful outcome. With the help of an outstanding cabinet the seniors once again earned their success.

Class Of '79

When we entered as 10th graders and began to show our pride
All knew our determination was formed deep down inside.

As 11th graders, we did not subside
We went "head-on" to show you
That we were one-of-a-kind.

As seniors, we have not ceased to desire
the title that year by year has made us aim much higher!

In athletics and academics,
We are doing really fine
And this is due to the teamwork
We efficiently combine.

We want to leave El Rancho with our heads held high in the air
With an inner satisfaction that only we can share.

It's going to be a pleasure to look back upon these years,
For we will be most proud of that great 79!
The symbol of the class that was...
Unique, Sublime, and Genuine!

"I'm From El

Rancho And I Couldn't

Be Prouder!"

In September of 1971 El Rancho acquired a new principal. William Payne moved on from the principalship of Mary Meller Junior High School to the "Home of the Dons". The move to El Rancho was but one more challenge to a man who had already accomplished much in the field of education.

Mr. Payne began his teaching career at South Ranchito while he was assisting the fabled George Allen with football coaching at Whittier College. He became a principal at the elementary level two years after beginning teaching, and has been the only district administrator to serve as building principal at all three levels. His "Not a Wisher, but a Doer Be" philosophy, coupled with respect for a job well done there, caused the "Wm. Payne Doer Award" to be established and given to an outstanding graduate each year at Meller Junior High.

The man himself is the embodiment of the "Doer" adage. During his twenty-five years in education, and especially during his seven years here at El Rancho, Bill Payne DID. He loved the kids, the school and the community, and demonstrated this in myriad ways. He counseled students, parents, teachers and other administrators. Mr. Payne took the time for anyone who needed it. Through a positive example he trained and encouraged younger administrators. As a father-figure, he brought life and light to those whom he touched. In essence, Bill Payne GAVE!

His gift of time, talent and energies has not been in vain, nor has it gone unnoticed. We at El Rancho have hearts filled with gratitude for his loyalty, his unselfish time commitment, and the feelings of unity he inspired. Although he left El Rancho in June of 1978 to assume a position in the District Office, his spirit remains at El Rancho. Whatever El Rancho becomes, it will be partly due to Bill Payne, for his seven years here will always play an integral part of the dynamic end product.

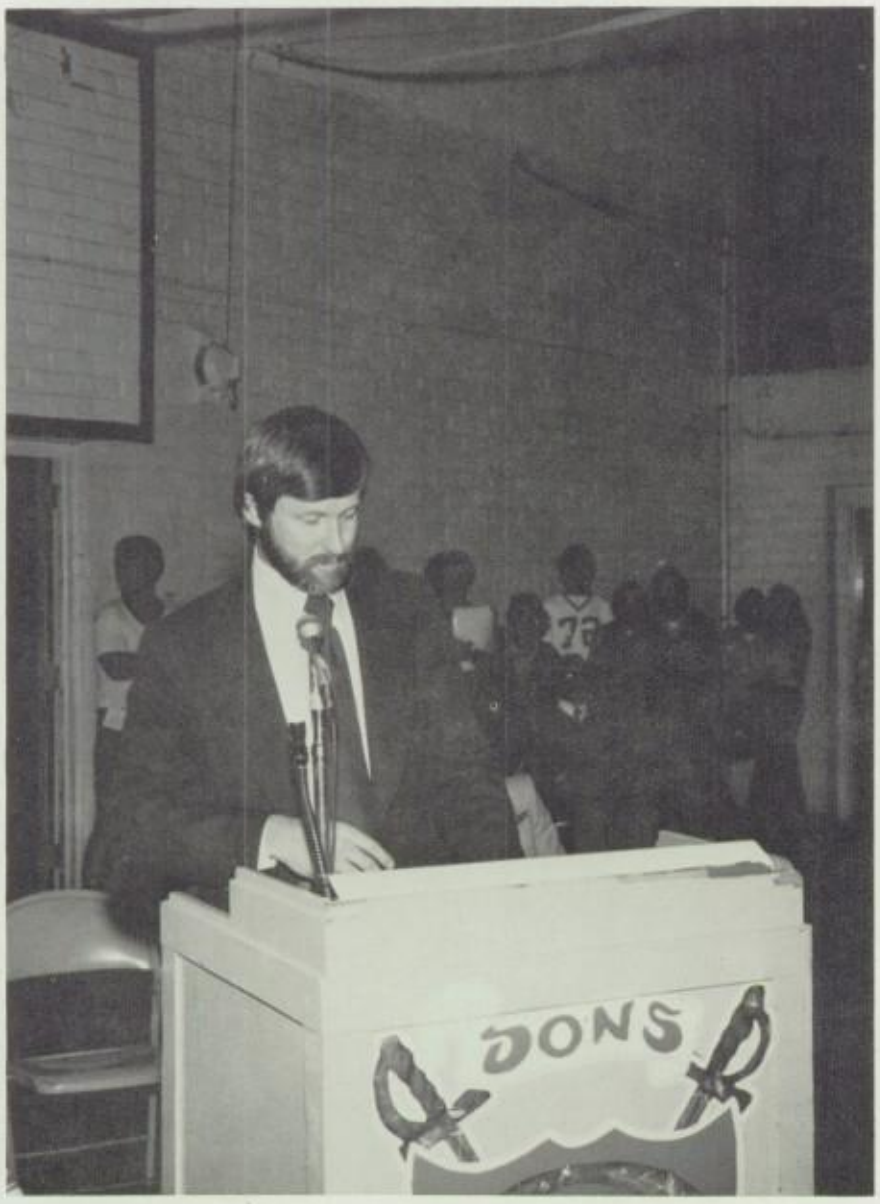
The DONS salute MR. WILLIAM PAYNE!!

The Homecoming election was most popular among all students. The princess nominees made it difficult for students to make a choice.

Lisa Perez portrays the average El Rancho teacher as part of the sophomore skit.

Within the gazebo, a couple displays a different type of fashion at the Girls' League dance.

Moving On Throughout The Year



As a new principal, Mr. John Sherman addresses the student body during an assembly.

After marching in the Pomona Fair parade, yell leaders quickly shed their hat, and also borrowed, uniforms. When they finally received their uniforms later in the year, the pepsters exemplified school pride by entering such state competitions as Arroyo where the songleaders, yell leaders and flagsters placed first, second and third, respectively in each of their divisions.

The 1978-79 school year became a new experience for many people. Changes within the school affected all students. The Administration differed also. Mr. John Sherman, formerly Assistant Principal in the Activities Office, found himself as the chief administrator. The advent of the year also found reorganization within the Guidance Office with the appointment of grade level deans. Mr. Guiseppe Petti assumed Mr. Sherman's previous assignment. In September, when Juniors and Seniors recalled their locker combination, they realized it was not the same anymore. Each student found a different storage place for books, apples, and fires when registering for classes. First and second lunch were extinct this school year. As the 12:03 bell rang, students from all over campus migrated to the snack shack with one thought in mind: food! Fifty-five minutes of socializing, eating, and escaping to Rubi's was sufficient for each student. For once, students could eat with whom they pleased without the worries of different lunch periods.

During the Welcome Assembly everyone, anxious to see the three pep squads perform, was suprised to see that the uniforms used were from past years due to problems with the manufacturing company. The library was also dressed differently. Three seminar rooms united to form what soon became the College Resource Center. College Board test applications, financial aid forms, and college information could be found here daily. During the first semester the center, packed with wall-to-wall seniors, was hard to get into, but the chaos settled down in the second half of the year.

Team became a class for many students to remember. Sophomores, Juniors and Seniors alike enjoyed the seminar presentations as well as the abundance of homework in these classes. Senior Team experienced a new type of enjoyment. With their knowledge of soma in Brave New World, they were able to last the remainder of the school year. Besides soma, Seniors also got a "flip" out of their 1st ice skating party. Unless they were professional hockey players, most of them flipped, tripped, "slided", and glided that night.

An Influential Year

Music also influenced all people on campus. Whether disco, rock, soul, or even oldie, students advertised their favorite group and song. Even though radios and tape decks weren't allowed on school grounds, everyone still found time for music.

Influencing most students, "Hat Day" took place one Friday in January. All kinds of sombreros covered the campus. Attire was very casual in this activity. A formal attire, however, was required at the Jr.-Sr. Prom. This romantic event took place at Lion Country Safari with "Always and Forever" setting a theme for the dance.

All in all, the year offered many rewarding activities for each and every student. The student, along with his teachers, was able to experience new and exciting events. As it ends, though, students will be moving on in different directions. Summer vacation too often brings a separation among students. Sophomores can now enjoy a 2 1/2 month vacation, juniors will soon move into employment, and seniors, if not doing the same, can prepare for their college life to begin in September.

This book would have never come into existence without the help of some people. With gratitude and love I would like to express a special thanks to each of them.

Thanks

David-for not giving up when you really wanted to.
Lori-when you were there, you worked.
Eddie-there'd be empty spaces on each layout without you.
Ms. Reyna-for "soma" (peanut) sales.
Ann-for everything you do so well. You're a pal of pals!
Tina-there would be no names in this book without you.
Dave-for pages 38 through 109.
Mrs. Hunker-for always letting me use the blue IBM.
Patricia-for word after word after word
Jeanette-what would pages look like without you!
Tracy-for the tragic '79!
Vince-if you had a different class fourth period, no one would be reading this.
Ms. Lawrence-you learned me alot of english stuff!!
Bob, Carol, Paul, Audrey & Betty-it would never have been completed.
Mom and Dad-for letting me take this awesome job!
Ms. Battu-for teaching me initiative!.

Highlighting the campus clean-up campaign, was the competitive trash can painting joined in by clubs and organizations.

A large amount of students covered their heads with all kinds of hats for the memorable Hat Day.

The Drill Team moved on daily to new and exciting parades.

Stay as sweet, wild, pretty, crazy as you are! It's been really great knowing you and having you in class you are really a good person to me. And I hope when we come back next year as juniors we will have some classes togethr again and if we do I feel sorry for the teacher because we'll probley end up in the office and the teacher (haha) inserted. Hope that what you wish for during the year that it comes true and that you reach all your goals in life. Knowing you, you'll probley end up the manager of some Rock and Rol group (haha) Or during the summer don't forget me and yvette and call me up sometime we could all get together and go to the beach. Cya I will do my best as next years Girl League President Because I know you will be going to have to go and I am going to [illegible] know who Louie Camacho my babe.
